

January 24, 2010

Dear Parents,

We are writing to let you know about an exciting and unique opportunity that Deborah Damast, lower school movement teacher, is offering our class. She has invited us to participate in a dance performance workshop, which concentrates on the basic and essential elements of choreography offered through NYU's School of Education Program called Kaleidoscope Dance for Children.

The workshop is fun and interactive. We will view two pieces of choreography, and participate in a dance/ movement workshop which includes a choreography segment in which the kids and company members will co-create dances and an original music score. A great opportunity for community building!

We are scheduled to go this Friday morning from 10:00-12:00. The workshop is held at NYU's Education Building, just a quick walk from school. Students will actively participate and should wear clothes that are comfortable to move in.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
Colleen and Abby